There have been recent changes to depository library passwords that are used to access various GPO tools and resources and Federal agency databases passworded in the FDLP. GPO has responded to requests from the depository library community to simplify the management of the various passwords currently in use.

A Passwords Used By Depository Libraries guide describes passwords used by depository libraries and how to create or obtain them. This guide is now available in the Tutorials section of the FDLP Desktop.