Depository Library Spotlight for May

One year ago, GPO began spotlighting individual Federal depository libraries to share the strengths, innovations, and contributions of these libraries. We all know how much everyone at depository libraries is working to engage your communities with U.S. Government information, and this series offers another glimpse into the diversity and creativity of just some of our partner libraries. Read more about all of the spotlighted libraries in the Year in Review.

The Depository Library Spotlight promotes the essential American service that is the Federal Depository Library Program. Consider contacting GPO to let us know about your library's activities. Perhaps the Spotlight will shine on your depository in the coming year.