The small package pick-up contract for Depository Distribution Division has expired. This contract is used to deliver selected publications to members of the Federal Depository Library Program. Our bid process has concluded and United Parcel Service (UPS) has been awarded the contract. The new service is to start on March 10, 2008. We do not anticipate any disruption in our services. The new service is being tested prior to implementation. If problems should occur which delays implementation, we will continue to use FedEx until they are resolved.

Return Fed-Ex labels will continue to be sent if they can be processed and returned to GPO prior to March 10, 2008. We ask that all mailrooms, and staff responsible for the receipt of FDLP material be notified of this change. If you experience problems during the change over contact Distribution through normal channels.
