Federal depository libraries are reminded the small package delivery contractor changed in March to UPS. If your library still has any of the FedEx labels previously sent to return stock to Depository Distribution, please destroy those labels. Depository Distribution no longer has a Federal Express account for this service. If you are still in need of a return label, please request a new UPS label utilizing the askGPO service using the "Distribution/ Shipments" category under "Federal Depository Libraries".