

Last year, at the request of the Joint Committee on Printing (JCP), GPO undertook a study of the organizational, financial, and technological conditions in regional depository libraries and their affect on public access to depository materials. The final report, Regional Depository Libraries in the 21st Century: A Preliminary Assessment, was delivered to the JCP and and is now available on the FDLP Desktop .

GPO thanks the depository library community for participating in the study process and for providing valuable information, comments, and supportive letters.
