Topics addressed in this presentation:

- Why review depository item selection profiles?
- Tools and tips for an effective review
 - Using Documents Data Miner 2 (DDM2) to generate a spreadsheet
 - Columns to hide and columns to insert
 - Additional tools: Accessing and downloading
- Evaluating each item number and examining its publications' usefulness to your library
 - DDM2 offers distribution volume and currency
 - The Catalog of U.S. Government Publications (CGP) describes tangible and online publications and indicates titles which are online
- Evaluating items and implementing profile changes on an ongoing basis
 - Sorting records to organize work
 - Vendor updates
 - Library-initiated updates

Why review item selection profiles?

Today's FDLP offers electronic access to most titles, making many "just in case" item selections unnecessary. The FDL Handbook recommends that depositories review their item selection profiles:

- Each depository library should conduct a comprehensive review of its selections regularly in order to insure that needed materials are selected and that materials, no longer of use, are deselected.
- You should continually assess user and community needs and provide access accordingly. This doesn't mean you have to re-invent the wheel each time. Instead, you should continue to review Federal, local, state, and regional Web sites to provide new resources and links to your users.

Tools for an effective review

- DDM2 – use to generate lists of selected and unselected items for evaluation, including SuDoc numbers and titles
- Item Lister – download weekly item profiles during the evaluation
- DDM2 – use to estimate the volume of tangible distributions or to determine the most recent tangible distribution
- CGP's expert searching capability helps determine the availability of online content in the FDLP for each item under evaluation

Creating a Profile to Address Local Needs

- Use DDM2's DEPOSITORY SELECTION, & DIRECTORY to generate your library's depository selection profile
- Download your library's profile of selected items. To maximize your options, download Active + Dropped + Unselected items
- Maintain the spreadsheet's values as text; otherwise item numbers will be stripped of leading zeroes

Key Data Elements from DDM2:

These DDM2 elements are most useful in evaluating depository item numbers:

- item
- selected (especially when listing dropped and unselected item numbers)
- sudocstem
- title
- format (items listing multiple formats show a row for each listed format)
- The next slide shows a sample spreadsheet with these values highlighted.

Techniques To Make Work Easier

- Add a column for decision recording, e.g., “to drop,” “retain,” or “add”
- Add a column for items that need MARC records. MARCIVE can supply electronic resource records for unselected items, allowing format selection granularity for more depository items. MARCIVE supplies UD records for online electronic resource titles only for items coded “O” instead of “*”
- Color code evaluated item numbers to make decisions clear or to indicate items to be reviewed by multiple subject specialists
- Periodically sort decision records so that all “to drop” or “retain” titles sit together for easy copying into the Amendment of Item Selections form and use “find and replace” to change “To drop” to “Dropped [date]”

Add columns to record of selection decisions and whether MARC records associated with the item are desired

Suggestions for using the Spreadsheet

- DDM2 spreadsheets have more data elements than may be needed. Delete or hide columns to improve navigation.
- Recording GPO item selection profile amendment decisions allows changes to be grouped into batches for efficient processing.
- Decisions may include retain, to add, to drop, added or dropped, or pending.
- "To drop" values may be sorted to process as a batch. When implemented, use find and replace to changed to "dropped [date]"
- Vendors have different requirements for profiling. MARCIVE customers may add columns to the left of the item numbers. A * value indicates a default location with shipping list records while O is for online-only, for example $LIBUDEL *..... 0 9999 I 0 [item number]
- Unwanted items? Mark DELETE and omit from the vendor profile.

 - Easy to download and gives you the most current information
 - A print copy may help you to analyze the publishing patterns of an agency or committee
- DDM2. Excel or Comma Separated Values (CSV) formats, updated regularly.
 - Downloadable updates to your library's profile can be added to your spreadsheet
- Item Lister. Text file, updated weekly.
 - Easy to download, may confirm selected items not yet in DDM2
 - Recommended format: Option 4. Selections (Y for Yes) and Non-selections (N for No) - in a single column

Item Lister is updated weekly: download copies regularly.
Notepad makes it easy to view this list in a separate window.

Evaluating item numbers

We need to answer the question “What content do my library’s users need?”

- Review new tangible titles as they are received and note items which do not deliver content relevant to your community
- Examine sample publications or their bibliographic records
- Search CGP for records to determine useful item numbers
 - Evaluate selected item List of Classes entries to identify low-content items. Examples common to many agencies, Ephemera and Forms may not be useful in tangible format. Check content before deselecting.
 - Evaluate Electronic Products (misc.) and General Publications to determine if useful content is available online
- Organize work into batches of items, especially when using the Amendment of Item Selections form for drops and adds

Evaluating each item number and examining its publications’ usefulness to your library

Merely reviewing List of Classes entries won’t answer this critical question:

“What content do my library’s users need?”

- Searching DDM2 by item number demonstrates the volume of recent tangible distribution by GPO and its microfiche contractors. DDM2 does not reflect tangible distribution by USGS.
- An item number search in CGP for available records reveals whether tangible products are needed to provide users access to content.

The List of Classes only represents possible FDLP formats

The List of Classes of United States Government Publications Available for Selection by Depository Libraries represents a menu for possible FDLP formats, not an assurance of equivalent coverage.

- Not all List of Classes entries offer a choice of formats
- Congressional publications may be selected in paper (P), microfiche (MF), or online electronic (EL) formats
 - Most Congressional publications are available in paper, from which microfiche copies may be produced
 - Some are online-only, with no paper or microfiche distribution
 - For Congressional publications important to your library's users, select paper and online electronic items and load records for both

Searching CGP to determine tangible and online content associated with GPO items

- Searching by item number is effective because of practices and standards adopted by GPO catalogers
- CGP's Advanced Search supports Boolean searching. Search results include an Expert Search strategy which can be edited for future use.
- Information recorded in MARC field 776 (linking entries fields which record records for additional physical forms) help determine the availability of equivalent online content

Consider these GPO cataloging practices for the use of item numbers in MARC records

- Item numbers need not “match” the SuDoc classification of the piece
- Item numbers reflect actual distribution of tangible documents
- Item numbers should not be used in records for undistributed titles

Searching CGP to determine online accessibility

For items listed without specific formats, search using an asterisk for truncation to retrieve all formats. Items formatted with numbers, letters and numbers, e.g., 1012-E-02 are ideal for this search but the strategy works for shorter item numbers as well.

Expert search: GDI = "0624-H*"

When print publications are also available online, GPO catalogers now create a separate electronic resource record which is referenced in field 776 of the record for the print edition. Current rules require the field to contain the description “online.” To locate records for print versions that may lack online equivalents, use advanced or expert searching to evaluate recent records. Search for the item number (without truncation) and the keyword “online” to retrieve publications lacking a labeled linking field 776 to online versions.

Item 0383-B* returns few online titles: “Will these satisfy library user needs?”

How do CGP searches help evaluate items?

- Searching for records containing linking fields versions is more effective than browsing by SuDoc Class to see if each title comes in all formats
- Searching by item number with and without the keyword online retrieves records showing whether that item's publications are available online
- As newer records include "online" in field 776, finding older records with unlabeled linking fields is not a cause for alarm
- Older records containing unlabeled linking fields can be checked by copying the OCLC number into an Expert Search box to retrieve the record
 - Search 035 = 618229877 or
 - Search OCLC = 618229877 (both search strings are valid)

Item No.= "1028-A" AND Keywords= online retrieves 46 records

What to do when truncation doesn't help?

When searching short item numbers which have longer versions near them, some clutter can be eliminated with Boolean searching. For example:

- GDI = "0626-C*" NOT GDI = "0626-C-0*"
- An alternative is to search by SuDoc stem, but keep in mind that not all records with SuDoc numbers were distributed. For example,
 - GVD = Y 3.2:L 63/L 52 retrieves two records
 - The record for the online version includes item number "1089 (online)" while the paper format record notes "Not distributed to depository libraries."

“Not distributed to depository libraries.”

This GPO Acquisitions record has only a SuDoc number, indicating that FDLP staff are aware of a book which will not be distributed in paper format

Evaluating items and implementing profile changes on an ongoing basis

- Depository item selection profile reviews take time, so procedures are needed to ensure that every item is vetted
- Using a shared drive during the review process allows staff authorized to make depository claims to see what items were dropped and when
- Sorting items is easy using a spreadsheet: sorting “to add” and “to drop” in the decision column allows batches to be copied into the Amendment form
- Items can be sorted into any desired order after decisions are implemented
- Vendors require items and customer decisions, not extensive notes!
 - Ensure that decisions and record requests are consistent
 - Derive a copy and remove any data columns the vendor doesn't need
 - Remove duplicate entries before submitting data to vendors

Vendors need only a fraction of the data used in your evaluation.

This detail shows how a copy of an evaluation spreadsheet was reduced to essential data and then de-duped to profile for both tangible + online records (*) or online-only records (O).

Vendor updates

- Some vendors will update depository item profiles automatically, adding new items to customers' profiles to ensure timely receipt of records associated with the new item numbers.
- For libraries seeking only MARC records for those items which they select, some vendors will capture the libraries' current item selection profiles and replace the old ones for a flat fee.
- MARCIVE offers a "Documents without Shelves" service which supplies records for GPO-cataloged online titles. Any library may subscribe.
- MARCIVE can also supply libraries records for selected and unselected items using library-supplied profiles.

Library-initiated updates

- Libraries seeking to control the type of records which they load can work with vendors to develop highly customized profiles
- MARCIVE can provide records by item number. MARCIVE will also provide or screen out records according to profiles set up by their customers
 - Libraries can eliminate records for individual quadrangle map sheets or for serial issues which the library chooses to treat as periodicals
 - In addition to item number profiling, records can be provided or screened out by SuDoc stem or format
- Libraries seeking greater granularity in depository selection can work with vendors to acquire records providing library users access to online titles which the libraries do not select

Best practices for Library-initiated updates

- Review item profiles on file with vendors at least annually to ensure that desired records are profiled to be supplied.
- Download new item profile data regularly from DDM2 and review them.
- Regular updating of the library's profile with record vendors helps ensure receipt of needed records.
- Items dropped from GPO profiles may not require immediate changes to vendor item profiles. Organizing vendor profile changes into periodic batches may be a cost-effective alternative.
- When you have a question or problem regarding vendor-supplied records, ask your vendor.
