- Fang Gao, Chief, Library Technical Services (LTS), LSCM, GPO
- Robin Haun-Mohamed, Chief, Outreach & Support, LSCM, GPO
- Anthony D. Smith, Chief, Projects & Systems, LSCM, GPO

Join GPO for an update on major projects and initiatives underway to support the FDL and Cataloging & Indexing Programs in GPO's LSCM unit.

1:30 – 2:30

Even More Sunshine: The Role of Open Access & Digital Deposit in Making Government Documents Accessible for Open Educational Resources and Beyond (DLC session)
- Carrie Russell, Director of Public Policy, American Library Association Washington Office
- James R. Jacobs, Government Information Librarian, Stanford University

This program will expand on discussions last year about the overlap between Government documents librarians and other open access professionals as we work to make information more freely available to all. We will review three different circumstances in which libraries were able to expand their collections through open access. This program will also introduce the concept of digital deposit to our community as a new means of preserving and providing access to Government information.

Washington Ballroom

1:30 – 2:30

GovDocs, GovPubs, GovInfo and TechnoStress
- Aimée C. Quinn, Assistant Professor/Government Publications Librarian, Central Washington University, James E. Brooks Library

Two constant themes pervade the course of my 30+ years working in depository libraries: new technologies and reorganization. It is more than change management as with each of these themes is a need to learn more, learn quicker, and assume more responsibility. I have observed most depository librarians manage to balance change well yet all this new learning and responsibility leads to "TechnoStress," a 1980s term where our brains are saturated with technologies and do not shut off so we start to feel withdrawal from it. Is this a rationale for the loss in interest in Government publications both in production and in preservation? Are librarians simply worn out with the increasing demands in learning new technologies? This presentation examines the roots of TechnoStress, its impacts on the field of depository librarianship, and its potential impact on the preservation of Government information. Last, we conclude examining the importance of self-care as part of a preservation program.

Wilson / Harrison

1:30 – 2:30

What's at the National Agricultural Library?
- Jill R. James, Associate Director for Information Products, National Agricultural Library, USDA

The National Agricultural Library (NAL) (https://nal.usda.gov) is one of the world's largest agricultural research libraries. This session will cover some of the key resources and services available from NAL such as PubAg, AGRICOLA, Ag Data Commons and the National Agricultural Library Thesaurus (NALT).

Jackson

| 2:30 – 3:30 | FDLP Modernization (DLC session) | Crystal Ballroom, Salon A |

FDLP Modernization (DLC session)
- Laurie Beyer Hall, Superintendent of Documents & Managing Director of LSCM, GPO
- Lori Thornton, DLC Chair, New Mexico State Library
- Erik Beck, University of Colorado Law School
- Stephen Parks, Mississippi State Librarian
- Cindy Etkin, Senior Programming Planning Specialist, Office of the Superintendent of Documents, GPO

Join us for this session to learn how GPO will improve and modernize the FDLP, with or without the passage of H.R. 5305. There will be time for you to share what poses a challenge for you in providing better access to Federal Government information.

2:30 – 3:30   Washington Ballroom

Know Your FSB from your KGB: Researching Soviet/Russian Intelligence in America
- David Durant, Federal Documents & Social Sciences Librarian, East Carolina University, J. Y. Joyner Library

In light of 2016's election-related hacking and the popularity of programs such as 'The Americans', the topic of Russian intelligence activity in America is once again prominent in the news and in popular culture. This presentation will offer an overview of the various Soviet intelligence services, their evolution, and their post-Soviet successors, as well as a brief history of their operations in America, down to the present. In addition, tips and guidance on how and where to research this topic, especially how to find Federal Government information, will be provided.

This will be an updated version of a presentation given at the NCLA Biennial Conference in October 2017: http://thescholarship.ecu.edu/handle/10342/6426.

2:30 – 3:30   Wilson / Harrison

Digging Deeper into Government Information: An Introduction to Text Mining
- Valerie Glenn, Federal Documents Analyst, HathiTrust
- Eleanor Dickson Koehl, Visiting HTRC Digital Humanities Specialist, University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign, University Libraries

Text mining is a research method that has experienced increased interest in recent years, and Federal Government information, primary source material in the public domain, is a natural set of data to mine. Researchers from fields such as political science, history, and economics seek to mine Government documents, but connecting potential text miners to relevant data is one of the major challenges in supporting this area of research. This session will provide an overview of text mining as it relates to Government publications, including major methods and tools, data sources, and needs, as well as the ways in which librarians can engage with data-driven research. It will provide hands-on experience with selected data and tools, primarily from HathiTrust and the HathiTrust Research Center.

2:30 – 3:30	Energy & Water Web Guides Featuring U.S. Government Web Sites	Jackson

- Naomi Lederer, Professor, College Liaison & Government Information Librarian, Colorado State University, Morgan Library

The initial focus of this presentation will be guides on energy and water that highlight government resources, which were created to support a multi-section first year composition course. Along with showing the guides, the rationale and thought behind the formatting of them will be described. Use of the longer existing guide on food will be reported (in 2017 it was in the top ten of library guides on the Colorado State University Libraries site). This highlights the opportunities that exist to promote government resources via curricular means. Strategies for making these opportunities into reality will be discussed.

3:30 – 4:00	Break

4:00 – 5:00	Processing Your Preservation Steward Collection	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A

- Hallie Pritchett, Associate Dean of Libraries for Research & Learning, North Dakota State University
- Michael Cerbo II, Chair of Technical Services & Head of Metadata and Content Management, University of Rhode Island Libraries
- Deborah Mongeau, Chair of Public Services and Government Publications Librarian, University of Rhode Island Libraries
- Bill Sudduth, Head of Government Information & Maps Department, University of South Carolina Libraries
- Suzanne Ebanues, Senior Planning & Development Specialist, LSCM, GPO

Join three Preservation Stewards and GPO staff to discuss efforts to preserve tangible Government information. The Preservation Stewards will discuss their experiences inventorying, cataloging, and filling gaps in their collections. GPO will share an update on the status of the Preservation Steward program.

4:00 – 5:00	What Is in Those Compact Shelves? Auditing and Quantifying a Government Documents Collection	Washington Ballroom

- Jennifer Kirk, Government Information Librarian, Utah State University, Merrill-Cazier Library

In order to properly assess a regional collection's needs and to prepare for the future, library staff needed to identify baseline data. Over the past six months, Government Information Department staff developed and implemented a Stacks/Collection Audit using open source tools. This presentation will cover the purpose, methodology, resources, implementation, limitations, and outcomes of a stacks/collection audit conducted in a regional FDLP collection at an academic library. Results of the audit included information about the extent of SuDoc stems, locations of needed collection maintenance, and rough estimates of numbers of materials by format and SuDoc stem. The planning and implementation of this project may be useful to other FDLP coordinators who wish to know more about specific parts of their collection, are anticipating a move or shifting project, are preparing for a preservation audit, or are planning a retrospective cataloging project. Additionally, the audit provided data that better describes the Government documents collection to stakeholders, inside and outside the library, through visualizations and reports. Links to the open source tools will be available to attendees who wish to participate in a hands-on manner during the session.

4:00 – 5:00	New Additions and Forward Thinking: Enhancements to the CGP and Related Services and Looking Towards the LSS • Patricia Duplantis, Systems Librarian, LSCM, GPO Attendees will be guided through a new service we will be asking for beta testers for and briefed on recent additions and enhancements to the Catalog of U.S. Government Publications (CGP) and related services. The recent CGP, Federal Depository Library Directory (FDLD), and MetaLib enhancements will be explored, and future enhancements discussed, including the new service. There will also be an opportunity to ask questions and provide feedback as we look toward the future Library Services System (LSS).	Wilson / Harrison
4:00 – 5:00	GPO: CIP Publisher and Partner • Caroline Saccucci, CIP and Dewey Program Manager, Library of Congress • Cynthia Earman, Cataloging and Metadata Librarian, LSCM, GPO GPO participates in the Library of Congress Cataloging in Publication Program (CIP) as publisher and cataloging partner. Learn about the CIP Program and the relationship with GPO, and find out how GPO can assist your agency with the CIP submission process.	Jackson
5:00	Adjourn

TUESDAY, October 23

8:00 – 8:30	Coffee with Council
8:00 – 5:30	Poster Presentations	Crystal Ballroom, Salon B
8:30 – 9:30	Continuing the Conversation: Ensuring Public Access to a Comprehensive Collection (DLC session) • Mary Clark, Director of Acquisitions and Access Management, The Library of Virginia • Cindy Etkin, Senior Programming Planning Specialist, Office of the Superintendent of Documents, GPO • Alicia Kubas, Government Publications and Regional Depository Librarian, University of Minnesota Libraries Building on the 2018 Spring DLC Meeting discussion around the concept of comprehensive collections, this session will introduce some of the new initiatives that challenge the idea of a comprehensive collection and GPO's ideas on how to reconcile these into a cohesive plan that will create a more flexible FDLP. The session will also explore practical ways that selectives and regionals are working on building comprehensiveness in their collections.	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A

8:30 – 9:30	"F" is for "Federal": How to Talk to Your Lawmakers About the FDLP	Washington Ballroom

- Gavin Baker, Assistant Director of Government Relations, American Library Association
- Emily Feltren, Director of Government Relations, American Association of Law Libraries
- Mark Miller, Chair, Loudoun County Public Library Board of Trustees
- Celina McDonald, U.S. Government Documents, Law, and Criminology Librarian, University of Maryland
- Stephen Parks, State Librarian of Mississippi, State Law Library of Mississippi

The FDLP is authorized and funded by Congress. However, members of Congress are often unaware of the Program or the many benefits it provides their constituents through local libraries. This session will teach the skills needed to successfully build relationships with your members of Congress, including how to educate them about the FDLP, how to engage others in your community, and how to identify opportunities to support the FDLP. You'll come away with a deeper understanding of the workings of Capitol Hill and be able to identify ways to develop productive relationships with your members of Congress in support of the FDLP.

8:30 – 9:30	Curating Government Information to Facilitate Access to Justice	Wilson / Harrison

- Michael Samson, Digital Interface Services Librarian, Wayne State University, Arthur Neef Law Library

The vast amounts of law-related content uploaded daily to Government websites reflects the growing preference for electronic information among Federal depository libraries. Yet, discovering and accessing this information can be particularly challenging for individuals who are unfamiliar with our legislative, judicial, and administrative systems.

This interactive presentation will illustrate how digital tools can be used to curate Government/legal information to facilitate more meaningful access by a community of users. Examples will highlight how blogs, alert services, and others can help identify, contextualize, and share the most relevant information from web-based Government sources to facilitate access to justice.

8:30 – 9:30	Why use DTIC? What You Get When You Do…	Jackson

- Phyllis Levine Ovsiew, Technical Information Specialist, Defense Technical Information Center

In 1945, shortly after WWII our predecessor agency, the Air documents Division, started a collection that consisted primarily of captured Japanese and German scientific documents. For the next 70 plus years, the Defense Technical Information Center has been collecting, processing, preserving, and protecting scientific and technical (S&T) information. Our mission is to acquire, store, retrieve, and disseminate the Department of Defense's S&T information and deliver the knowledge needed to develop the next generation of technologies to support our warfighters. DTIC has a history! Today, DTIC is much more than a repository for S&T reports. DTIC provides resources and tools in three environments – Public, NIPRnet, and SIPRnet. The R&E Gateway is an ideal tool for saving time and resources for scientists, researchers, engineers, librarians, program managers, students, and anyone looking for science, technical, research, and engineering information. DTIC offers you two types of Collaboration tools – DoDTechSpace and DoDTechipedia.

As a DTIC user you will have access to over four million items of public and controlled access scientific and technical information. As a contributor of S&T information to DTIC, you can be sure that your research will be protected by the distribution statements assigned to it and will be accessible to future generations. Your research efforts will not be lost in a filing cabinet or trashed.

9:30 – 10:30	Section 508 and Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) beyond the Federal Sphere	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A

- Bruce Bailey, Accessibility IT Specialist, U.S. Access Board

This session will provide an overview of the impact of Section 508, compliance for Federal agencies, and implications for academic institutions. The session will focus especially on the Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Final Standards and Guidelines which became effective in January 2018. The speaker will respond to the impact of Section 508 and WCAG 2.0 as it relates to higher education and academic institutions. WCAG and 508 conformance for both web design and web-accessed documents (i.e. PDF) will be discussed.

9:30 – 10:30	3 Steps to FDLP Promotion Success	Washington Ballroom

- Kelly Seifert, Strategic Communications Coordinator, LSCM, GPO

FDLP promotion can seem daunting, but when you approach is systematically with our three easy steps, your ideas and marketing strategies will fall into place. This session will utilize the accompanying handout, 'Elements of Your Marketing Strategy,' which will be passed out at the session and is also available for download in the Slides & Handouts area of FDLP.gov's conference event page.

9:30 – 10:30	Who, What, Where, When, and How? Legislative Research When You've Reached the End of What You Know	Wilson / Harrison

- Jesse Silva; Librarian for Federal and State Government Information, Political Science, Public Policy, and Legal Studies; University of California, Berkeley
- Andrea Sevetson, Senior Customer Experience Training & Consulting Partner, ProQuest.com

We all reach the limits of our knowledge or resources for tracking legislation. In this presentation Jesse and Andrea will review some of the harder questions they've answered and the tools used along the way to answer them.

9:30 – 10:30	2020 Census Overview & Update	Jackson

2020 Census Overview & Update
- Erika H. Becker-Medina, Program Manager and Chief of the Decennial Communications Coordination Office, U.S. Census Bureau

This session will present a summary overview of how the U.S. Census Bureau conducts the decennial census--including improvements for the 2020 Census--and a status update of where they are now.

10:30 – 11:00	Break

11:00 – 12:00	Reach Out and Help: Serving the Underserved through Government Information (DLC session)	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A

- Yvonne D. Williams, Cataloging Specialist, Benjamin L. Hooks Central Libraries, Memphis Public Libraries
- Jennifer Rowe, Subject Librarian, University of North Texas Libraries
- Todd Scudiere, Technical Services Librarian, LSCM, GPO
- Carmen Cruz, Financial Education Program Analyst, Office of Education, The Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection
- Jane Canfield, Coordinator of Federal Documents, Pontifical Catholic University of Puerto Rico

This presentation is an overview of the Underserved Populations, as well as a challenge to reach out and help this vulnerable populace. It will identify specific groups, which are characterized as underserved, such as members of minority populations and individuals who have experienced health disparities. It will disclose captivating results of a survey conducted by the University of North Texas Libraries, which focuses on disabled university students and the challenges of providing effective services to this less guarded community. Yet, it will provide invaluable information from the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection about their work with libraries which includes their resources. It will also include a synopsis of GPOs successful activities with the Tribal College community.

11:00 – 12:00	GPO's Library Technical Services Update	Washington Ballroom

- Fang Gao, Chief of LTS, LSCM, GPO
- Megan Minta, Collection Development Librarian, LSCM, GPO
- Caroline Hassler, Supervisory Librarian, LSCM, GPO
- Stephen Kharfen, Supervisory Librarian, LSCM, GPO

Join GPO staff for an overview of LTS projects and activities, including GPO's collection development activities, GPO Cataloging Guidelines, Superintendent of Documents Classification Guidelines, cataloging projects, and more.

11:00 – 12:00	Welcome to the USGS Library! • Sally J. Roberts, Chief of Technical Services, USGS Library, U.S. Geological Survey Established in 1879, the U.S Geological Survey Library is recognized as one of the world's largest Earth and natural science libraries, providing services, collections, and expertise that are essential to the USGS mission and the global geoscience community. The USGS Library is a multisite, centralized library, providing bureau-wide access to scholarly journals and research support services to USGS employees around the Nation. An important role of the USGS Library is the preservation of its unique physical collections, ensuring continued access for future generations. In addition to the unique physical collections, the Library strives to increase online access to geoscience research through the digitization of USGS-authored publications and historical photographs. This presentation will provide an introduction to the USGS Library's collection, both physical and digital, as well as highlight other services, products, and data available from the USGS.	Wilson / Harrison
11:00 – 12:00	Data.gov • Hyon Kim, Program Director, Data.gov The talk will present the current status of Federal open data and the Government's open data site, Data.gov. The continuing work of Data.gov and the Federal agencies to implement the Federal Open Data Policy, as well as the developing Federal Data Strategy, will be discussed.	Jackson
12:00 – 2:00	Lunch Break On Your Own
1:00 – 2:30	Poster Session Meet and talk with the poster presenters.	Crystal Ballroom, Salon B
2:00 – 3:00	Intricacies of PURLs and Linking to Digital Content • Ashley Dahlen, Senior Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO • Donna Kraemer, Supervisory Librarian, LSCM, GPO Libraries developing digital collections must necessarily understand the basics of Persistent Uniform Resource Locators (PURLs). This includes being familiar with practices used by Library Technical Services at GPO to link to differing types of digital resources. It also includes understanding the underlying bibliographic component and the challenges associated with providing permanent access for digital resources throughout their lifecycle. Libraries have various approaches to connect their users with digital content, both through cataloging and through other means. Learn about the complexities of PURLs and how it may impact your library's collections.	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A
2:00 – 3:00	FDLP.gov Website Modernization • Darryl Walker, Systems Manager, LSCM Projects and Systems • Katy Davis, Lead Web Content Specialist, LSCM Projects and Systems Since the last major update of FDLP.gov*, technology has evolved, allowing stakeholders to have access to more sophisticated content solutions. Additionally, as LSCM evolves and implements new initiatives, LSCM's Web Content Management unit is working towards laying the technological foundation that will support these initiatives and provide librarians with tools that are useful and informative.*	Washington Ballroom

2:00 – 3:00	Docs Go to College: Universal Access Meets Honor Code • Stephani L. Rodgers, Public Affairs Research Librarian, Virginia Commonwealth University, Cabell Library This session will cover ways to interest college students in Government documents. Reasons to stop assistance to college students will also be covered.	Wilson / Harrison
2:00 – 3:00	Encourage Literacy and Engage Students and Teachers with Primary Source Documents and Through National History Day • Missy McNatt, Education Specialist, DC National History Day Coordinator, National Archives and Records Administration Primary source documents are essential in National History Day projects and are the foundation of the C3 Framework and the Common Core. Inspire classroom learning with compelling documents from your library. Learn how to connect documents from your library with teachers and students through the National History Day program.	Jackson
3:00 – 4:00	LSCM Outreach & Support Update and Question & Answer Session • George Barnum, Senior Program Planning Specialist, LSCM, GPO • Kathy Bayer, Senior Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO • Kathy Carmichael, Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO • Ashley Dahlen, Senior Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO • Melissa Fairfield, Planning Specialist, LSCM, GPO • Jaime Hays, Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO Join staff members from LSCM's Office of Outreach & Support for an update of major projects and initiatives underway for Federal depository libraries. The session will end with a Q&A session.	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A
3:00 – 4:00	Promoting the FDLP Through Public Library Services for Immigrants • Wang-Ying Glasgow, Adult Services Coordinator, Memphis Public Libraries, Benjamin Hooks Central Library • Yvonne D. Williams, Cataloging Specialist, Memphis Public Libraries, Benjamin Hooks Central Library This presentation is an overview of Memphis Public Libraries' effort in promoting FDLP resources through partnership with United States Citizenship and Immigration Services and engagement with multicultural community groups and organizations. It will disclose how these resources and partnerships have allowed Memphis Public Libraries to provide services and programs such as Naturalization Ceremonies, Citizenship Corners, and International Story Times, as a means of "Keeping Immigrants Informed" and helping them realize their "American Dreams."	Washington Ballroom

3:00 – 4:00	The University of California's Federal Documents Archive: 5 Years and 200,000+ Documents Later • Jesse Silva; Librarian for Federal and State Government Information, Political Science, Public Policy, and Legal Studies; University of California, Berkeley • Heather Christenson, Program Officer for Federal Documents and Collections, HathiTrust The University of California's Federal Documents Archive (FedDocArc) is a multi-year project to build a shared print and digital archive for the UC system and the State of California. Since 2013, we have built an archive of over 200,000 print and digital Federal documents to be shared and accessed via HathiTrust, and we are continuing to move forward! In this session, Jesse Silva will provide an overview of the project, its goals, problems encountered and their resolutions, and plans for FedDocArc's future. Heather Christenson will discuss HathiTrust's digital Federal documents collection built-in collaboration by the HathiTrust member libraries and housed in the HathiTrust Digital Library for preservation and access. We hope FedDocArc can serve as a model for depository libraries that want to work together to build a collection for the benefit of their institutions and the people of their state.	Wilson / Harrison
3:00 – 4:00	Unifying and Creating Links Between Research Outputs at the Department of Energy • Carly Robinson, Senior Product Strategist/Senior Science Advisor, Department of Energy (DOE) Office of Scientific and Technical Information (OSTI) DOE's OSTI is developing and providing tools and services to more easily link together research and development (R&D) outputs funded by DOE. OSTI fulfills the agency-wide responsibilities to collect, preserve, and disseminate these outputs emanating from DOE-funded R&D activities. Through a suite of searchable discovery tools, including OSTI.GOV, DOE CODE, DOE PAGES, and DOE Data Explorer, and through our digital object identifier (DOI) assignment services, OSTI is working to advance science by creating a unified user environment linking together software, data, and publication research results.	Jackson
4:00 – 4:30	Break
4:30 – 5:30	New govinfo Enhancements and FDsys Retirement Update • Amanda Dunn; Program Planner; Office of Programs, Strategy, & Technology (PST); GPO • Suzanne Ebanues, Senior Planning & Development Specialist, LSCM, GPO • Christine McMahon, Program Planner, PST, GPO This session will update you on the December retirement of GPO's Federal Digital System (FDsys) and also bring you up-to-speed on several initiatives related to GPO's govinfo, including newly-available content and enhancements.	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A
4:30 – 5:30	Regional Depositories Meeting An open discussion of issues related to regionals. All are welcome to attend!	Washington Ballroom

4:30 – 5:30	Navigating Benefits.gov: How Benefits.gov Can Help You and Citizens in Your Community!	Wilson / Harrison
	• Ellery Rush, Stakeholder Relations and Marketing Outreach Analyst, U.S. Department of Labor Benefits.gov Program
	• Tyler Bryant, Stakeholder Relations and Marketing Outreach Analyst, U.S. Department of Labor Benefits.gov Program
	• Madelyn Weingast, Stakeholder Relations and Marketing Outreach Analyst, U.S. Department of Labor Benefits.gov Program
	This presentation will be an interactive overview of the completely redesigned Benefits.gov website and the features that citizens, agencies, and community advocates alike can leverage to explore information on government benefits.
4:30 – 5:30	The Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection	Jackson
	• Carmen Cruz, Financial Education Program Analyst, The Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection
	• Lyn Haralson, Financial Education Program Analyst, The Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection
	The Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection wants to work with libraries to develop a community-focused effort to provide unbiased financial education and resources. In this session you will learn about the Bureau's "libraries program" helping libraries become the go-to resource in their communities for free and unbiased financial education resources. In addition, this session will present information on the Bureau's 'Money as You Grow Bookshelf' program. The program contains popular books for children ages four to 10 and companion guides to help parents get started reading and talking with their children about money choices.
5:30	Posters Close	Crystal Ballroom, Salon B
5:30	Adjourn

WEDNESDAY, October 24

8:00 – 8:30	Coffee with Council
8:30 – 9:30	govinfo ISO 16363 Trustworthy Digital Repository Audit & Certification Status Update	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A
	• Jessica Tieman, Digital Preservation Librarian, LSCM, GPO
	• John Garrett, Primary Trustworthy Authorisation Body (PTAB)
	GPO began the initial steps of a third-party audit and certification of govinfo under the ISO 16363 Trustworthy Digital Repository standard in June 2018. This presentation will review GPO's process in preparing for certification and initial insights during the preliminary assessment findings as part of Stage 1 of the audit. GPO will provide a brief overview of their next steps going into Stage 2 of the audit. John Garrett of the Primary Trustworthy Authorisation Body, currently conducting the formal assessment of govinfo, will present information about the auditing body and their involvement with international digital preservation standards.

8:30 – 9:30	2017 Biennial Survey of Depository Libraries: Results and Actions • Lara Flint, Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO • Kathleen Swigert, Management and Program Analyst, PST, GPO This session will present a summary and analysis of the results of the 2017 Biennial Survey of Federal Depository Libraries. Learn what issues other depositories are facing, and get a nationwide picture of collections. You can also provide feedback on what actions GPO should prioritize to enhance services and on how to improve the survey in future years.	Washington Ballroom
8:30 – 9:30	An Introduction to Congress.gov • Barbara Bavis, Bibliographic and Research Instruction Librarian • Robert M. Brammer, Senior Legal Information Specialist, Law Library of Congress This orientation is designed to give a basic overview of Congress.gov. While the focus of the session will be searching legislation and the Congressional member information attached to the legislation, the new features of Congress.gov will be highlighted as well.	Wilson / Harrison
8:30 – 9:30	Grants.gov: Register, Find, & Apply • Judy Ceresa, Program Advisor, U.S. Department of Health & Human Services Participants will learn the necessary steps to register in order to submit Federal grant applications and how to use the Federal Grants.gov system to find and apply for grant funding.	Jackson
9:30 – 10:30	Government Information for Everyone: Ways to Increase Accessibility of FDLP Collections • Sarah Erekson, Regional Government Documents Librarian, University of Florida, George A. Smathers Libraries The Federal Depository Library Program aims to bring Government information to everyone. How can we maintain and increase access, including serving people with print disabilities? This session will give some historical background on library services to people with print disabilities, such as people with blindness, low vision, or physical disability and providing access to government information. I will bring awareness to barriers to access in federal depository library programs and ways that electronic government information overcomes some of those barriers. Participants will learn about tools to assess barriers to access in library services to people with print disabilities. Participants will also learn IFLA best practices for making presentations that are more accessible and inclusive.	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A
9:30 – 10:30	Using PolicyMap to Access Federal Data • John Stevenson, Head of Multimedia Collections & Services Department, University of Delaware, Hugh M. Morris Library Many librarians are uncomfortable with data and mapping. PolicyMap uses data from both U.S. federal and proprietary sources and makes it easy to visualize. Beginners can quickly georeference points of interest and build maps to guide or support their research. While PolicyMap is a subscription-based service, free trial accounts that turn into limited access accounts are available. If possible, a hands-on component will allow participants to establish trial accounts and test drive this popular mapping application.	Washington Ballroom

9:30 – 10:30	FDLP eXchange Discussion & Demonstration • Lisa Russell, Senior Project Analyst, LSCM, GPO • Melissa Fairfield, Planning Specialist, LSCM, GPO This session about the newly-released FDLP eXchange will include a brief discussion of the tool, tips and tricks, and frequently asked questions. A demonstration and the opportunity for consultation will follow. Bring your own device if you would like one-on-one assistance.	Wilson / Harrison
9:30 – 10:30	Council Working Meeting • The members of the Depository Library Council Council business and a discussion of potential recommendations to GPO	Jackson
10:30 – 11:00	Break
11:00 - 12:00	DLC Wrap-Up Meeting • The members of the Depository Library Council A review and discussion of conference takeaways and DLC action items	Crystal Ballroom, Salon A
