Novel Coronavirus: Guidance for Employers

What is novel coronavirus?
Novel coronavirus (2019-nCoV) is a virus strain that has only spread in people since December 2019. Health experts are concerned because little is known about this new virus and it has the potential to cause severe illness and pneumonia in some people.

How does novel coronavirus spread?
Health experts are still learning the details about how this new coronavirus spreads. Other coronaviruses spread from an infected person to others through:
- the air by coughing and sneezing
- close personal contact, such as touching or shaking hands
- touching an object or surface with the virus on it, then touching your mouth, nose, or eyes
- in rare cases, contact with feces

How severe is novel coronavirus?
Experts are still learning about the range of illness from novel coronavirus. Reported cases have ranged from mild illness (similar to a common cold) to severe pneumonia that requires hospitalization. So far, deaths have been reported mainly in older adults who had other health conditions.

What are the symptoms?
People who have been diagnosed with novel coronavirus have reported symptoms that may appear in as few as 2 days or as long as 14 days after exposure to the virus:
- Fever
- Cough
- Difficulty breathing

Who is at risk for novel coronavirus?
Currently the risk to the general public is low. At this time, there are a small number of individual cases in the U.S. To minimize the risk of spread, health officials are working with healthcare providers to promptly identify and evaluate any suspected cases.
Travelers to and from certain areas of the world may be at increased risk. See wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel for the latest travel guidance from the CDC.

How can I protect my workforce from infection?
If employees travel overseas (to China, but also to other places) follow the CDC’s travel guidance: wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel. Consider restricting business travel to affected areas for the time being.
Right now, the novel coronavirus has not been spreading widely in the United States, so there are no additional precautions recommended for the general public. Steps you can encourage your employees to take to prevent spread of flu and the common cold will also help prevent coronavirus:
- encourage hand washing often with soap and water. If not available, use hand sanitizer.
- encourage employees to avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth with unwashed hands
- encourage employees to stay home when sick
- instruct employees to cover mouth/nose with a tissue or sleeve when coughing or sneezing
- surgical masks are not needed at this time, except in health care settings

Currently, there are no vaccines are available to prevent coronavirus infections.

How is novel coronavirus treated?
There are no medications specifically approved for coronavirus. Most people with mild coronavirus illness will recover on their own by drinking plenty of fluids, resting, and taking pain and fever medications. However, some cases develop pneumonia and require medical care or hospitalization.

JUNETEENTH AT THE LIBRARY

Juneteenth is a time of celebration and a time of education. At the heart, Juneteenth celebrates the end of slavery, but it also celebrates hope and the enduring spirit of freedom. In honor of the 155th anniversary of Juneteenth we have pulled together this list of virtual events and resources so the entire family can still celebrate Juneteenth together.

Virtual Juneteenth Celebration @ the Library

We have several Zoom events happening on Friday June 19th. Join us for stories, songs, and more:
10:30 AM – Join Morgan on Zoom for a special Juneteenth Story Time for children. Details HERE.
12:00 Noon – Juneteenth Celebration featuring Saylor Lynn. This event was recorded for future viewing. View Zoom Recording HERE. Password = 8p+2M4%$
2:30 PM – Juneteenth Celebration with songs, stories, and instruments. Guest speaker is Mr. Norman Redwing, Founder of Afrikan Heritage and Culture of Memphis. Details HERE.
4:00 PM – Democracy Cafe Zoom exploring the question, “How do we achieve absolute equality of rights today?” Cossitt Library manager, Shamichael Hallman, joins the discussion. More details HERE.
Juneteenth Urban Music Festival – Virtual

Locally, Juneteenth has been celebrated consistently since 1991. The Juneteenth Urban Music Festival is offering a virtual event this year instead of their usual festivities. The event will be held on their Facebook page, found HERE. For more information on the festival as well as a local history of the festival, visit their website HERE.

Shamichael Hallman, Senior Manager of the Cossitt Library, interviews Telisa Franklin of the Juneteenth Urban Music Festival. Listen now! Ms. Franklin has provided some accompanying documents below.

• Juneteenth Urban Music Festival Brochure
• A Brief History of Slavery – Pictures
• Douglass Neighborhood History
• A Brief History of Slavery
Six museums across America including the National Civil Rights Museum are celebrating the 155th anniversary of Juneteenth by launching a website and a video commemorating the end of slavery. Register HERE.

Interactive Tour: Smithsonian National Museum of African American History & Culture
In celebration of Juneteenth, Lonnie Bunch III, the museum’s founding Director, leads a virtual tour through their Slavery and Freedom exhibit, highlighting several of their most popular pieces. This museum also has this blog post, “The Historical Legacy of Juneteenth”, explaining the history of Juneteenth.

The Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History Juneteenth Virtual Celebration
This museum is holding a virtual event including Sounds of Freedom: The Art & Music of Charlie Parker along with an invitation for children everywhere to submit a video answering the question, “What does freedom mean to you?”
Books for Checkout

We have several books on the Juneteenth celebration for Children and Adults. In addition to these titles, we have a special OverDrive/Libby collection on Social Justice, Activism, and Anti-Racism.

The Anisfield-Wolf Book Awards recognize books that have made important contributions to our understanding of racism and human diversity.

The Black Caucus of the American Library Association Awards acknowledge outstanding achievement in the presentation of the cultural, historical and sociopolitical aspects of the Black Diaspora.

The Coretta Scott King Book Awards are given annually to outstanding African American authors and illustrators of books for children and young adults that demonstrate an appreciation of African American culture and universal human values.

Digital Public Library of America – Juneteenth

The Digital Public Library of America is a one-stop search for many digital archives across the nation. They include over 6,000 items, including items from our own DigMemphis, related to Juneteenth.
Houston Public Library Digital Archives
The Houston Public Library houses the African American Library at the Gregory School which aims to preserve, promote, and celebrate the rich history and culture of African Americans in Houston, the surrounding region, and Texas. With Juneteenth originating in nearby Galveston, Texas, they have an extensive digital collection of early Juneteenth celebrations, found HERE.

Congressional Research Service
Juneteenth Fact Sheet
This document by the Congressional Research Service provides a brief overview of Juneteenth for members of Congress.

Taste of Freedom Cookbook
From the first Juneteenth celebrations in the 1860s to today, delicious food has always been a part of the festivities. Staff of the Prairie View A&M University and John B. Coleman Library put together this historical cookbook of recipes and archival images of early Juneteenth celebrations in Texas.
Meet the Candidates – August 6 Election
Juneteenth celebrations historically bring out the candidates and voter registration drives. You can virtually meet the candidates for the upcoming August 6th elections on our Meet the Candidates page. This page includes links on voter registration, too.
For more on the Library’s role in Democracy, Diversity, and Discourse, visit HERE.

VIRTUAL HBCU CAMPUS TOURS
The Memphis Public Libraries wants to ensure that our local high school seniors and juniors have an outlet to view college campuses online. We have compiled a selection of Historically Black College and University (HBCU) campuses from around the nation for you to explore. We hope this helps to keep the conversation and interest going for the upcoming fall semester as teens discover new ways to explore colleges that interest them.
